Longtime Green Bay Packers coach Vince Lombardi once said, “Success demands singleness of purpose.” At Inter-County Energy, we know our purpose is to serve you. We do this not just by providing you with safe, reliable power, but also by supporting a better way of life that goes beyond the light switch on the wall. We power more than just your home.

We deliver power with a purpose by:

EMPOWERING PEOPLE

Inter-County Energy is owned by the people we serve—you—not by the government or investors. At our annual meeting, members elect directors to represent your interests and set policy and procedures for the co-op.

FOCUSING LOCALLY

Because every one of our members live where our power lines run, the co-op serves our communities instead of shareholders who live somewhere else. We distribute and sell electricity to our members at cost and invest excess revenues back into the local electric system. All of this means you pay less for energy. Occasionally members will receive capital credits when the cooperative has excess revenue.

COMMITTING TO COMMUNITY

Education grants, workforce development and STEM learning programs, scholarships and support for local charitable organizations are all part of how Inter-County Energy is working alongside our members to build a brighter local future. As a member of Kentucky’s Touchstone Energy Cooperatives, we show our commitment to local communities through programs that support veterans,

TIM WEBB

Special Olympics athletes and families facing illnesses.

This month, we join with other Kentucky’s Touchstone Energy Cooperatives as a platinum sponsor of the Special Olympics Kentucky State Summer Games. This is the 12th year we’ve sponsored inspiring athletes at the competition held at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. The events include track and field, swimming, rhythmic gymnastics, bocce and flag football. Our co-ops sponsor the games—the largest of the year for SOKY—and our co-op family of volunteers helps run the event.

According to Coach Lombardi, success requires identifying your purpose. At Inter-County Energy, we are successful because we know our one true purpose is serving our members, and I hope you see that commitment in everything we do.
